9 Must-See Gallery Shows During Art Basel Hong Kong

Pace stages Mary Corse's first show in Asia, and K11 Atelier launches at Victoria Dockside with a group show

by HALEY CHOUINARD

MARCH 26, 2019

Over the past few decades, Asia has positioned itself as a global hub for art and luxury. And the Hong Kong edition of Art Basel, one of the world's biggest and most important art fairs, is a major stop on the global fair circuit.

As dealers and patrons prepare to descend on Hong Kong this week for the 2019 iteration of Art Basel Hong Kong, Galerie shares our top picks of exhibitions not to miss while visiting the thriving metropolis.

K11 Atelier, 21/F Victoria Dockside, 18 Salisbury Road

For the first exhibition in the $2.6 billion waterfront art and design development known as Victoria Dockside, Venus Lau, the artistic director of the K11 Art Foundation, brings together paintings, video works, sculptures, and installations by 16 artists, including Larry Bell and DeWain Valentine, and Chinese contemporary artists Zhang Enli and Chen Wei. The show, which runs through May 13, looks at the “concept of luminescence and the current zeitgeist of ‘glow’ in relation to century’s old ideals of the form and human existence.”

9. Leonardo Drew

Pearl Lam Galleries, 12 Pedder Street

This local gallery has been a driving force within Asia's contemporary art scene for over 20 years, playing a vital role in stimulating international dialogue on Chinese and Asian contemporary art. Currently on view at the Pedder Building space is an exhibition of new two- and three-dimensional works by New York sculptor Leonardo Drew.
